(hereinafter referred to as the Client)

for Suppliers of Goods or Services or Goods and Services (hereinafter referred to as the Supplier)

1. Preamble

The GBTCs herein set all contractual relationships between the Client and the Supplier, where the Client is the Purchaser under a Purchase Agreement with the subject as delivery of goods (hereinafter referred to as the Goods) or of services or works (hereinafter referred as the Services) under a Contract on the provision of Services. These GBTCs may also set contractual relationships in other cases if so agreed by the Contracting Parties. The Client reserves the right to change these GBTCs; the current version of the said GBTCs is always available on the following (Client's) website: <https://www.recovera.cz/podminky-pro-dodavatele/> ("Client's link"). The Supplier undertakes to comply with all obligations arising out of these GBTCs. New or amended GBTCs are binding on the day following the day on which the GBTCs were posted by the Client at the Client's link.

By entering into a contractual relationship with the Client, the Supplier confirms to the Client that it has found these GBTCs at the Client's link.

The Client shall be entitled to unilaterally change these GBTCs; such new or changed GBTCs shall become binding upon the Contracting Parties:

- a) either on the date following the date when the GBTCs have been posted by the Client at the Client's link (unless the effective date is stated in the GBTCs);
- b) or on the effective date stated in the new wording of the GBTCs

The Supplier undertakes to continuously monitor the Client's link in order to know the applicable and effective wording of the GBTCs. The Client may notify the Supplier of the current changes to the GBTCs, which, however, shall not release the Supplier from the obligation to monitor the GBTCs at the Client's link stated above continuously.

2. Order of precedence

Unless otherwise stated in these GBTCs, the current Czech legislation sets the relationships between the Client and the Supplier; namely the rights and responsibilities that are duly governed by the legislation in force and effective within the Czech Republic, in particular Act No 89/2012 Coll., The Civil Code, as amended (hereinafter referred to as CC). The parties agreed that the conflict-of-law provisions pertaining to international private law, the provisions of the UN Convention on Contracts for International Sale of Goods and other international treaties, i.e. bilateral inter-state treaties, shall not apply to the relationships governed by these GBTCs.

3. Agreement signing

Any Purchase Agreement or Contract pursuant to these GBTCs, in accordance with Clause 1 of the GBTCs (hereinafter referred to as the Agreement), may be signed in all or any manner provided by the Czech legislation, in particular the CC. Furthermore, it shall be based on an order issued to the Supplier by the Client in written or electronic format, such as email (hereinafter referred as the Order). The Supplier shall confirm, propose changes or reject each Order within 03 working days from the date of its receipt, in the format in which it was issued to the Supplier. The Supplier may only reject the Order citing credible and serious reasons. The Order shall be deemed as accepted if the Supplier acts in accordance with the specifications of the said Order, in particular if providing or accepting its performance.

Upon the due acceptance of these GBTCs by the Supplier for the first time, it shall mean that the said GBTCs will be binding on all subsequent agreements concluded between the Supplier and the Client, in particular Clause 1 of the GBTCs.

4. Agreement interpretation

Provisions included in the Agreement take precedence over the wording given in the Order, over the wording in these GBTCs, and over the wording in the so-called other documents potentially agreed by the parties in writing to implement the performance pursuant to the concluded contract or according to the concluded Order (hereinafter referred to as the Other Agreed Documents). Provisions included in the Order take precedence over the wording in these GBTCs and over the wording included in the Other Agreed Documents. Divergent provisions stated in Other Agreed Documents shall prevail over these GBTCs.

5. Delivery, shipping conditions, date and place of delivery

The date and place of delivery of the Goods or the Services is governed by what is agreed in an Agreement signed between the Client and the Supplier or by what is included in the Order accepted by the Supplier. If the delivery date is not stated in an Agreement or Order, the Supplier shall deliver the Goods within one week of the date of receipt of Order. If no delivery date is stated in the contract or the Order, the Supplier shall be obliged to carry out the Service at the latest within one week from the moment of receiving the Client's Order. If the place of delivery is not stated in the Agreement or Order, the Supplier shall deliver the Goods at own cost to the place duly specified by the Client via email, fax, telephone, etc., pertinent to that particular Agreement or Order. If the mode of transport is not stated in the Order, the mode of transport to the place of delivery stated in the Order is governed by Incoterms 2010 – DDP rules. The Client reserves the right to refuse any delivery of Goods or Services (hereinafter referred to as the Delivery) that deviates from the quantity or quality ordered and the Supplier shall duly bear the cost for removing such defective Delivery. In such event, the Client also reserves the right to notify the Supplier in writing within 14 days of the Delivery of the Goods or the Delivery of the Services that the exceeded quantity of Goods or the exceeded scope of Services are accepted for a price previously agreed, not for the increased price due to the exceeded quantity of Goods or the exceeded scope of Services. The Client is not responsible for any leakages, spill or any other environmental event (including disposal costs) related to the Goods or Services delivered, which are based on an Order or Agreement until the acquisition of the title to the delivered goods or, more precisely, until the takeover of the Service rendered. Deliveries must include all pertinent documents relating to the ordered Goods or the ordered Services stating, at the least, the Order number or the Agreement number. The Supplier shall provide the Client with all required assistance during the inspection of the Goods or during the inspection of the Services (works) and wait for the written confirmation that the Delivery of the Goods or Delivery of the Services has been formally accepted by the Client. The Delivery of the Goods or Services shall be deemed as completed when the Client accepts the said Goods or Services by issuing a signed Acceptance Report stating that no defects or work as yet to be carried out are found. The Client shall not refuse the acceptance of any Delivery that is free of defects or work that has been completed in full. The liability for damage to property and ownership right shall pass from the Supplier to the Client upon the proper and due conduct of the Handover Procedure, and upon the Client's acceptance of fault-free Goods or a flawlessly rendered Service.

6. Packaging

The Goods must be duly packaged - suitable for the agreed type of Goods and for the agreed mode of transport - in order to avoid damage to the Goods and to ensure safe handling. Used packaging is returned at the Supplier's costs only if agreed in the Agreement or in a confirmed Order. The returnable packaging shall be marked with a number, the owner of the packaging and a legible sign indicating returnable packaging; otherwise it shall be considered as non-returnable. All packaging must be environmentally friendly and must meet the requirements of the relevant generally binding legislation.

7. Documentation

The Supplier undertakes to provide the Client with all relevant documents essential for the due and lawful use of the Services or the Goods, such as the manufacturer's User Manual, the Service Book, the Declaration of Conformity issued in accordance with the current legislation, the list of service centres, the specific warranty conditions and other required documents. In the event that the Supplier fails to handover all essential documents to the Client, the parties shall then assume that the agreed Delivery without faults has not been duly completed by the Supplier.

8. Notification of delay

The Supplier undertakes to notify the Client in writing or by telephone promptly of any delay in the Delivery of the ordered Goods or delay in the performance of the agreed Services.

9. Excusable delay

No party shall be liable for any delay or non-performance caused by the so-called force majeure. The Supplier shall immediately notify the Client in writing of the occurrence of force majeure, including the educated guess of the date on which the force majeure will end. Immediately after the expiration of force majeure, the Supplier shall notify the Client in writing. In the event that the force majeure prevents the Supplier from meeting obligations under the Agreement for more than 10 working days, the Client reserves the right to withdraw from the already signed Agreement.

10. Price

The Supplier shall deliver the ordered Goods or carry out the agreed Services at the price stated in an Order or agreed upon in an Agreement. Unless stated otherwise, the price includes all costs incurred by the Supplier for the Delivery of the Goods or for the provision of the Services. The delivered Goods or Services must not be subject to any third party rights and may not have any other legal deficiencies. The Supplier undertakes to immediately notify the Client upon discovering that the Goods or Services are subject to the rights of third parties or have legal deficiencies. Upon receipt of such communication, the Client reserves the right to decide whether to withdraw (ex tunc) from the already signed Agreement, or whether to retain the Goods or Services. In the event that the Client withdraws from the Agreement, the Supplier shall remove the Goods or the Services from the Client at own cost. The Client reserves the right to claim compensation for any damages incurred and for any costs incurred in the performance carried out for the Supplier; the latter shall meet such claims without undue delay.

11. Cancelling an Order

Failure to deliver the ordered Goods in due and timely manner or failure to carry out the agreed Services in due and timely manner is considered as material breach of an Agreement/Order on the part of the Supplier. In the event of failure to duly deliver the ordered Goods within the specified deadline or failure to duly carry out the agreed Services by the completion date stated in an Order or Agreement, the Client reserves the right to withdraw from the signed Agreement at any time without prejudice to the Client's rights to contractual penalties, liquidated damages for delay, compensation for any damages and any losses incurred. Furthermore, the Client's rights relating to defects and the Supplier's duty of confidentiality are not affected. The provisions of Section 2003 of the Civil Code shall not apply. The Client may also withdraw from only a part of the agreed performance. The obligation in the contract or the Order shall not be fixed pursuant to Section 1980 of the Civil Code.

12. Invoicing and payment terms

An invoice shall include the particulars of a tax document as laid out by the generally binding legislation, the parties' negotiated Terms and Conditions and these GBTCs. The invoice header shall include the Order or Agreement number as listed on the said Order or Agreement in the format of „Order 45000XXXXX“; „XXXXXX“ represent numbers sent by the Client. An invoice shall include the company name/first name and surname, Supplier's address and bank details, description of the Goods, description of the Services provided, the quantity and the unit of measure. All applicable taxes, relevant negotiated prices, other fees (customs duty, etc.) must be shown separately on the Supplier's tax document. The invoice (tax document) shall also include a document certifying the due delivery of the Goods confirmed in writing by the Client and/or a document certifying that the Services were duly carried out and confirmed in writing by the Client. The invoice (tax document) shall be sent to the Client's invoicing address stated in the Order or Agreement. The invoice is deemed as undelivered if it is not sent to the Client's invoicing address stated in the Order or Agreement or to the electronic addresses of the Client's organisational units stated in the Order or Agreement. The Supplier shall send the said invoice again with the invoice due date commencing to run from the date when it was received by the Client at the appropriate invoicing address. The payment terms are governed by the relevant provision in the Order/Agreement, unless they are subject to these GBTCs. In the event that the invoice is incomplete or has other deficiencies, the Client reserves the right to return the invoice to the Supplier, and the due date of such invalid invoice will not apply. Invoice due date commences on the date the Client receives the correct or corrected invoice from the Supplier. If the invoice due date is not agreed, then the due date is set as 45 days from the date the Client receives the correct invoice from the Supplier. Any amount paid by the Client, as per the signed Agreement, shall be deemed as reimbursed as of the moment of the invoice amount duly debited from the Client's bank account.

13. Electronic invoicing

The Client prefers receiving invoices (tax documents) from the Supplier in electronic format (hereinafter referred as electronic invoice), whereby Electronic invoices, if issued by the Supplier, shall be sent to the electronic addresses of the Client's organisational units stated in the Order/Agreement.

14. Performance and warranty for quality

The Supplier shall supply Goods without any material, factual, legal defects or any other defects. The Goods or Services are considered defective if: (a) do not, from any point of view, correspond to the technical specification and the agreed design; (b) do not have the characteristics specified by the Supplier in the samples, prototypes or the offer; (c) are not suitable for use for which, under an Agreement or intent of the Contracting Parties, they were intended; (d) their origin or properties are not confirmed by the prescribed documents, (e) they are subject to any rights of third parties; (f) they are not safe and in accordance with all generally binding legislation regulations and technical standards (ČSN) that relate to the Goods or Services of the same nature as the Goods or Services supplied and g) otherwise differ from what the Client could reasonably expect.

The Supplier provides warranty to the Client for the quality of Goods or Services in the extent of twenty-four months from the date that the Acceptance Report is signed by the Client. If the manufacturer provides a longer warranty for the Goods or Services, the Supplier shall pass the relevant information relating to the warranty period for quality to the Client and it is deemed that such longer warranty period for quality will be provided to the Client.

The Client reserves the right to lodge a claim within the warranty period with the Supplier on defects to the Goods or Services as well as lodge a claim relating to warranty for the quality of the Goods or Services. The Client also reserves the right to rebuke any defects in Goods or Services occurring during the warranty period or which existed prior to acceptance of the Goods or Services by the Client. The Client reserves the right to identify a claim relating to a defect under warranty proceedings and the Supplier shall not refuse the said claim. The Supplier shall formally respond to the warranty claim no later than within three days following the date when it was received by the Supplier, otherwise the claim is deemed as warranted.

If a claim is not directly identified by the Client within the warranty proceedings, the Supplier shall remove the claimed defects within 07 days of the date of the warranty claim lodged by the Client. If the Supplier does not remove the claimed defects, then in addition to the Client's statutory claims for defects, the Client may remove such defects at Supplier cost and may even use the services of a third party to this effect. Furthermore, if the Client's operational safety is endangered, the Client reserves the right to remove the defects immediately or acquire replacement Goods or Services from another entity and to request that the Supplier reimburse the costs thus incurred.

The Supplier is liable to pay the Client any direct or indirect costs incurred due to defects in Goods or Services. Such costs also include penalties and compensation for damages incurred by third parties against the Client, for example due to legal deficiencies in Goods or Services or pursuant to intellectual property rights of third parties to Goods or Services.

The Contracting Party, which does not acquire the status of an unreliable VAT payer during a taxable event by the tax authority's decision, may terminate any Agreement already entered into by issuing a three-day notice, which commences on the date of delivery of the notice to the other party that received the status of an unreliable VAT payer from the tax authority.
